

OVERVIEW

Megan Gajewski is a Partner at Kelley Kronenberg, focusing her practice on Mortgage Banking and Lending Services, involving both transactional and real estate litigation matters. Additionally, Megan handles matters involving collections, asset recovery and creditor's right litigation. She advises clients regarding regulatory and statutory compliance, and regularly represents banks, financial institutions, mortgage lenders and servicers, corporations and public entities.

Megan understands the highly technical nature of federal and state consumer financial protection laws and regulations, including the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, Truth-in-Lending Act, Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act, and the regulations promulgated by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. She incorporates regulatory considerations into her representation of clients – both in terms of effectively litigating matters and offering legal guidance regarding compliance and prevention of liability when completing transactional matters. Megan is committed to offering creative and strategic advice to help solve complex legal issues and achieve her clients' business goals.

Megan obtained her undergraduate degree from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. She obtained her Juris Doctor from Seton Hall University School of Law where she was an Editorial Board Member for the Seton Hall Law Review. Before attending law school, she taught children and adults with autism. Megan is a member of the bar in Illinois, New Jersey and Florida.
