

Kelley Kronenberg's Admiralty and Maritime Practice Group offers a variety of maritime-related legal services, ranging from litigation and claims handling, to regulatory compliance advice and casualty investigation/response. With offices adjacent to the Atlantic seaboard, the Gulf of Mexico, and the Great Lakes, our Admiralty and Maritime Practice Group Attorneys have a unique ability to address Maritime matters in three of the most active areas of marine-related commerce in the United States. This strategic positioning enables us to provide local experience and knowledge to our clients, including production in the western Gulf of Mexico.

Our Admiralty and Maritime Practice Group understands the unique concerns of our maritime clients and offers creative solutions that help clients meet their goals as efficiently and effectively as possible.

Our Attorneys possess diverse experience in all aspects of Maritime and Admiralty law. Although casualty representation and litigation is the most common need of our clients, we are also retained to handle regulatory or government related issues, transactional matters and related business operations, mediations, and arbitrations.
