

Our Coverage & Bad Faith Group at Kelley Kronenberg assists insurers with difficult coverage and bad faith issues, including both pre-suit and litigated matters. We have extensive experience litigating declaratory judgment, breach of contract, and bad-faith actions throughout the State of Florida, in both state and federal court. Our experienced coverage attorneys advise insurers on the good faith handling of cases involving:

- Civil Remedy Notices
- Declaratory judgment actions
- Demands for extra-contractual damages
- Demands with conditions
- Single-party or multiple claimants
- Time limit demands

Particular policy types and issues our firm's attorneys have advised on and litigated includes the following:

- Comprehensive General Liability (CGL)
- Commercial and Personal Auto, including PIP and UM coverages
- Construction Defects
- Construction Accidents
- Directors & Officers (D&O)
- Environmental
- First-Party Property
- Homeowners
- Additional Insured Claims for defense and indemnity
- Premises Liability
- Professional Liability, including insurance agents, accountants, and legal professionals
- Trucking & Transportation
- Workers' Compensation and Employers Liability

Our Coverage & Bad Faith Group aims to help carriers make reasoned and fair decisions concerning policyholders. We also support our clients by offering coverage opinions, assisting in drafting coverage position letters, and, where appropriate, initiating declaratory judgment actions.
