

Kelley Kronenberg's experience spans many aspects of the construction industry and our attorneys understand that the needs of our clients in this industry are unique and complex. At Kelley Kronenberg, attorneys with differing areas of legal expertise work together to address not only the contractual and litigation needs of our construction industry clients, but also the business, financial, risk management, regulatory, labor and employment, insurance, and workers' compensation needs.

From project inception to delivery (and beyond), Kelley Kronenberg represents all participants in the building process, including design professionals, public and private owners, developers, general contractors, subcontractors, product manufacturers and suppliers, risk insurers, and sureties, involving a wide variety of residential, commercial, and industrial construction projects. Kelley Kronenberg's attorneys counsel clients on all aspects of the design and construction process, assisting clients during project development, bidding, contract drafting and negotiation, construction, project close-out, and post-completion claims. Our attorneys are well versed in meeting the complex challenges that face our clients in achieving project completion on time and within budget. Our attorneys include experts in their field who routinely write and lecture on construction law topics through national organizations such as National Business Institute (NBI), Strafford, Law Practice CLE, and MyLawCLE, as well as construction industry groups such as Construction Association of South Florida (CASF).

Our attorneys strive to reach negotiated solutions in construction disputes whenever possible, but if we cannot achieve our clients' goals by negotiation, we are fully prepared to proceed through all the stages of civil litigation or arbitration, including mediation, trial and appeals. We pride ourselves in thorough and detailed analysis of cases, often times with the assistance of skilled engineers and other industry experts, so that we know our cases better than our adversaries leading into mediation and trial, maximizing our clients' recovery or mitigating their potential exposure. Our attorneys have ready access to the full range of resources necessary to assist our clients with any construction problems, both large and small, and pride themselves on knowledgeable and personalized service, always striving to achieve results efficiently and cost-effectively.
