Kelley Kronenberg Holds Statewide Employment Law Seminars Hosted By Partner Angelo Filippi And Associate Melissa O'connor

The nationwide, full-service law firm Kelley Kronenberg hosted several Employment Law Seminars around Florida during the month of March. These breakfast seminars were hosted by Angelo Filippi, a Partner in the firm's Fort Lauderdale office who also serves as Director of the firm's Employment and Labor Law Department, and Melissa O'Connor, as Associate who practices environmental law.

Topics covered at the Employment Law seminars included an update of recent case law changes, Americans with Disabilities (ADA) regulations, retaliation and coercion, and the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA). Mr. Filippi summarized significant employment law cases and decisions from 2011. Ms. O'Connor covered environmental law issues, specifically the Sackett v. EPA case.

Although the March breakfast seminars were held for firm clients, any interested company can contact the firm to schedule one. The seminars were held in Miami, Fort Lauderdale, Boca Raton, Orlando and Tampa.

Mr. Filippi represents clients on a broad range of workplace matters. He defends clients before local, state and federal enforcement agencies and has extensive experience litigating both individual and class action claims. He received his bachelor's degree from New York University and his law degree from St. John's School of Law. Mr. Filippi is a member of the Broward County Human Relations Board as well as the Board of the Miami Dade College legal studies program.

Ms. O'Connor concentrates her practice on environmental law, including counseling and advising clients on strategies to assure environmental compliance, and avoid or minimize environmental risks and liabilities.

Kelley Kronenberg has nine office locations around Florida, including offices in Houston and Chicago, offering a broad range of legal services, such as employment law, bankruptcy, collections, family law, general liability, commercial litigation, and more.
